LOCAL STUDENTS WIN AWARDS AT MONTANA SCIENCE FAIR

MISSOULA --

Two students from Big Sandy High School won awards at the 33rd Montana Science Fair, held April 8-9 at the University of Montana.

Angela Simon, a junior, won a Bronze Medal Award in the high school division for her project on "The Effects of Various Amounts of Indoleacetic Acid and Adenine Sulfate on African Violet Tissue Cultures." That project also earned her a U.S. Marine Corps Award in botany.

Beatrice Schulter, a senior, won an Auxiliary to the Montana Veterinary Medical Association Award for a project called "Electric Curtain." The award was a $50 bond.

The fair included 407 exhibits from junior and senior high school students from across the state.
